With unified context from across your organization, coupled with Google's unique understanding of the threat landscape, Google Unified Security helps organizations to get ahead of the latest threats.

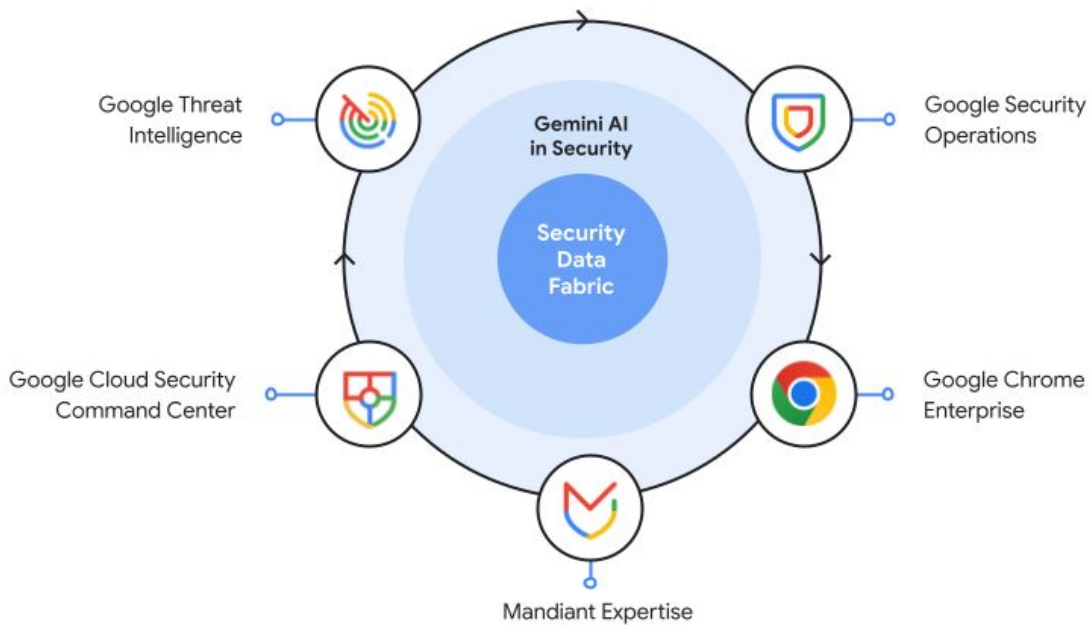

I see Google and its security suite as one of the top partnerships that I have within my organization. The value they bring, the expertise and the knowledge, the willingness to play with us to explore new opportunities and to look at new areas – it makes them a true partner and someone that we're very happy to be working together with.”

Craig McEwen, Deputy CISO, Unilever
