Guardian’s Guide to Google Meet

Can’t meet face-to-face? Use Google Meet to communicate beyond the classroom

Google Meet is a part of Google Workspace, and is available to schools for no charge through Google Workspace for Education. Educators can use Google Meet, a video conferencing tool, to connect with your child 1:1, to facilitate remote instruction, or to hold meetings and conferences with parents and guardians virtually.

If your child has a computer or mobile device with internet access and a Google Workspace for Education account, teachers can continue instruction over video with Google Meet.

Why do schools choose Google Meet?

- Administrators set up Meet
  Your school’s IT Administrator will set up and enable Google Meet, and make sure certain controls are only in place for teachers.

- The teacher is in control
  Only the teacher can mute or remove other participants in a meeting – which means a student can’t accidentally (or otherwise) mute or remove their teacher.

- Use live captions
  For students who are Deaf or hard of hearing, or need help focusing, turn on live captions.

Tips for using Google Meet at home

- Make sure your child is using their Google Workspace for Education account
  If your child is communicating with their teacher or class, make sure they are using their school Google account, not a personal account.

- Get help with homework
  You can set up homework help or meetings with teachers.

- Create a great experience
  To make sure your child has the best experience on Google Meet, make sure you’ve got the latest version installed. You can turn off the camera on your child’s device for better quality, too.

- Encourage participation
  Your child can use the Slides Q&A feature to talk to the teacher and their peers – and see the content being presented at the same time.

Student safety with Meet

Google is committed to building products that help protect student and teacher privacy and security for our schools.

If your child is using Google Workspace for Education, Google does not own any of the student data, students are not subject to ads, and we support compliance standards such as FERPA\(^1\) and COPPA\(^2\).

Questions to ask your child about Google Meet:

- How is your teacher using Google Meet for classes?
- What do you like about seeing your teacher and classmates over video?
- What are the rules in Google Meet? How are they different to the rules in your regular classroom?
