When Should I Use Shorts?

Goal	Promoting a Release	Promoting a Tour	Audience Growth
Timing	Release cycle (Pre-release, release day, post-release)	Duration of the tour	Always On
How	Tease song and then make Shorts to inspire fan creation	Post performance highlights Show behind-the-scenes	Highlight catalog Engage with fan content

How often should I post Shorts? Try posting weekly and then re-adjust your posting schedule based on your Shorts' performance.

Measure your Shorts Performance

We recommend looking at the following metrics within YouTube Analytics for Artists to start:

- Creations
- Subscribers from Shorts
- Song Views from Shorts

Don't get caught up in the numbers, but keep a pulse on any types of Shorts fans connect with most. YouTube recommends content based on an individual's personal interests, video performance, and external factors like trends.

Shorts Tips

Focus on Quality, Not Quantity

Channel size or number of uploads do not influence how your Shorts perform. Make the best Shorts for your music, your wellbeing and your fans.

Stay Patient While You Test and Learn

It may take a bit of time for your content to reach the right fans, so don't get frustrated if you don't see immediate success. Keep testing new ideas to find your niche.

Upload Shorts Consistently

Consistency is key on Shorts, so keep your content front and center for fans. There is no minimum posting cadence required in order for your videos to have a chance to perform well.

Make Many Different Shorts for a Song

The more a fan hears your song in Shorts, the more likely they are to listen to your song in other formats.

Display Text or Lyrics on Screen

Use text as another way to draw fans in and continue watching, even the fans that might be watching with low or no volume.

PRO TIPS

TITLES & DESCRIPTIONS

Titles and descriptions are one of many signals that the algorithm uses to recommend videos, so keep them relevant to your Short. Include 2 or 3 relevant hashtags, but you don't need to include #shorts.

THUMBNAILS

Don't stress too much about the perfect thumbnail as Shorts show up directly in the Shorts feed. Consider highlighting a clear clip as the thumbnail, like an important moment or end result of your Short.
