Looking back to move your business forward

YEAR IN SEARCH 2020
INDONESIA
2020 is behind us and we are ushering a new year 2021. However, we still find ourselves yet again amidst relentless uncertainty and numerous questions. In a year where the pandemic has challenged everyone around the world, 2020 encouraged each of us to use more digital platforms, including turning to Search, to find answers: we ask “why” more than ever before.

And while we may not have found all the answers, we hope that the development of our 3rd edition of our Year In Search 2020 report can help portray some of the shared desire Indonesians have in trying to understand our collectively unique experiences, and how marketers can connect--and reconnect--to consumers in a more personal way, including using digital. This year’s edition looks somewhat different, where most pages carry the weight, questions, and behaviors of Indonesian consumers that have both emerged and shifted due to the pandemic.

Our report analyzes Google Trends data to see what Indonesian consumers are searching for. Many are tackling individual matters and confronting social stigmas, taking it upon themselves to care about a greater purpose and the wider community, as illustrated by the 200% jump in searches around donations or the 95% jump in searches around buying local. Some turn to Search to look for tips to juggle the increasing demands that the work-home worlds bring forth. In fact, shopping has evolved significantly across Indonesia since the start of COVID-19, with consumers going online not only as buyers, but also as sellers, and growing smarter in how they interact with and expect from brands. Above all, most Indonesians have turned to Search to seek greater assurance and certainty in order to look for ways to move forward confidently into the future.

We have heard from you on your hopes to better leverage Search insights for your businesses. With this report, we share Search trends across seven industry verticals--Technology, Media and Entertainment, Shopping, Beauty and Personal Care, Food and Beverage, Finance, and Transport and Travel. At the end of every industry section, we have added vertical-specific brand takeaways that will help you translate these insights into actions for your businesses.

As the world continues to evolve, the marketing landscape, too, must adapt alongside it. Uncertain times represent new opportunities that call for new learnings, deeper reflections, and greater inspirations. We hope that our report can serve as an opportunity for us to look back and help transform your business digitalization forward together.

Warmly,

Randy Jusuf,
Managing Director, Google Indonesia

Trend 1

Individual Matters

COVID-19 is far more than a health crisis. It affected societies and economies at their core across nations, and with it, a simple truth was reaffirmed: no two human experiences are the same. Across 2020, Search trends reveal that people are placing increasing importance on their individual perspectives, even if they are not openly accepted by society.

The global pandemic has made people’s diverging needs, habits, and beliefs more apparent than ever. It’s this unique set of experiences that remind us that individual behavior shouldn’t be influenced by what society considers to be appropriate and inappropriate. Instead, the focus should be on understanding and embracing what makes us different, and on prioritizing mental and physical well-being to emerge stronger as individuals and society.
There’s been a growth in searches for mental health. It has also resulted in Indonesians turning to the internet to find ways to prioritize wellness and improve quality of life.

- 70% spike in searches related to “kesehatan mental” (mental health)
- 55% rise in search queries related to “apa itu anxiety” (what is anxiety)
- 45% growth in searches for “self care”
- 90% jump in searches for “obat gerd” (GERD medicine) to combat heartburn and reflux

Source: Google Trends Data
This year, Indonesians are educating themselves on social issues.

"black lives matter" saw a significant spike in active searches in 2020, as the movement that originated in the US a while ago emerged as a new global issue that inspired Indonesians and resonated with them too.

25% jump in searches related to "gender equality"
Takeaways for brands

Highlighting diversity, equity, and inclusion aren’t enough. It takes empathy to understand the variety of situations consumers face and acknowledge an individual consumer’s journey to create both meaningful and profitable connections.

“Increasingly aware that personality, purpose and profit can be compatible, consumers seek brand relationships that go beyond the superficial and transactional. They will embrace brands with meaning and character: that are open, honest, sympathetic, and, most importantly, stand for something."

- TrendWatching, on the consumer search for human brands

1. Embed empathy into a brand’s marketing strategy by considering consumers’ individual journeys.

Burger King launched Sunyi Bersuara to show that a day at work for a deaf employee is not much different from anyone else’s. It launched a sign-language font and encouraged other brands to use it for their logos in a show of solidarity, and support equal job opportunities for disabled communities. More than 65 companies quickly signed it on www.sunyibersuara.id.
2. Build inclusivity into your brand.

Heinz brand Kecap ABC launched a campaign called Suami Sejati Mau Masak to promote gender equality, starting in the kitchen. The campaign encouraged Indonesian husbands to cook and become equal partners. The campaign started a national conversation and got over 5.9 million views, prompting Kecap ABC to launch a new program called Kecap ABC Koki Muda Sejati (ABC Soybean Sauce’s Real Young Chefs). The brand also continued these efforts by holding Women’s Equality Day & Mothers’ Day initiatives in 2020.

Japan-based Japan Airlines (JAL) launched a hyper-personalized video campaign, ‘Fly Once, Fly Always’ for five markets across Southeast Asia in November 2019. The campaign leveraged 3,000 unique creative assets to create 24 different versions of the video that recreate the special ‘first time feelings’ of flying among travelers. The content displayed is chosen according to the viewer’s relevance. For example, the version served to viewers in Indonesia features a woman wearing hijab, to illustrate that JAL serves halal food.
3. Pay attention to tone and timing.

Don’t rush things and push boundaries too soon. Your aim is not to have your efforts to be regarded as a PR stunt. Show your support by ongoing encouragement, and connect with audiences when they’re ready.

Danone Waters’ Aqua brand team were to launch a campaign on the benefits of healthy hydration when social distancing was introduced. Aqua pivoted its campaign to promote a different health message: a reminder to all Indonesians to stay at home and help the government to flatten the curve.

The brand replaced its billboard with a simple yet powerful message: “For the first time ever, we do not want you to see this ad. Stay home. Stay hydrated.”
Takeaways for brands

4. Make use of tools and technology to engage large audiences who have specific and ever-evolving needs.

Google Trends

Tools like Google Trends keep us up-to-date on changing behaviors, so brands can find the right fit with their brand values and speak to them genuinely.

Google Ads

15% of daily searches on Google are new, making it difficult to consistently show up as helpful and understanding of customers’ needs. Responsive Search Ads help adapt an ad to more closely match potential customers’ search terms, making it much easier to serve relevant ad messaging.
Trend 2

Higher Purpose

The pandemic forced a global reset that is testing our humanity and values. It has encouraged us to think beyond ourselves and focus on the greater good of the community. While some sought ways to give back to society and the environment through charity work or by adopting green habits, others found ways to support small businesses affected by the pandemic.
Environmental concerns are not new. But 2020 was a turning point that featured some key attitude shifts towards protecting our planet.

Confronted with their own personal consumption habits during lockdowns, Indonesians have been reassessing their impact on the environment.

- 35%
  - Increase in searches related to “bebas plastik” (plastic free), in response to Jakarta’s ban of single-use plastic bags

- 170%
  - Year-on-year growth in searches for “reusable cup”, amidst strong concern over the amount of single-use plastic used in the country

- 90%
  - Jump in searches for “reusable mask”, which are more eco-friendly and also cheaper in the long run

- Increase in topics related to plant-based diets, as more consumers sought alternatives to animal-based food products

Social distancing – and isolation, in many cases – brought a desire to connect to our wider community by giving back.

Increase in searches related to “tenaga medis” (medical workers), with people also searching for ways to show their appreciation for frontline workers:

- “apresiasi untuk tenaga medis” (appreciation for medical workers)
- “lagu untuk tenaga medis” (songs for medical personnel)

Jump in searches related to “menyumbangkan” (donate), in comparison to 15% in the previous year.

Spike in searches for “paket sembako*” (grocery essentials).

*Semako: “sembilan bahan pokok” (nine grocery essentials)
New habits are carrying us into 2021 and beyond, with more consumers choosing to support businesses in Indonesia and buy local to keep the economy going.

- Increase in searches for "buatan indonesia" (made in Indonesia): 95%
- Growth in searches for "produk lokal" (local product): 70%

Source: Google Trends Data
Takeaways for brands

Make meaningful connections that go beyond traditional corporate social responsibility. It’s also important to actively support communities and take actions to integrate sustainability into a brand’s values.

1. Create new ways for consumers to connect with the environment, and each other.

Go beyond your operational footprint and actively invest in sustainability-centered activations like Converse* did with their City Forests. This community project engages local artists to create murals using a photocatalytic paint that helps clean the air. These air purifying murals have been spotted in Jakarta, Sydney, Bangkok and Ho Chi Minh City.

Indonesia-based mobile app payment system OVO launched a crowdfunding campaign in January 2020 to help the victims of floods in Jakarta. The initiative allowed people to make donations on OVO’s app, and prompted Southeast Asian ride-hailing platform Grab to match the donations up to IDR 1 billion (USD 73,157).

Takeaways for brands

2. Make your values and internal practices externally visible.

Embed community values into your employee culture and day to day operations. Be proactive about challenging old business models and ways of working.

Danone Indonesia places great importance on inclusive diversity as a company, believing that celebrating uniqueness fosters innovation and collaboration. Danone Indonesia has built an organization where women make up 50% of their Board of Directors. Their company values and internal practices are made clear on their website.

Garnier Indonesia partnered with TerraCycle and DoSomething.org to launch Rinse, Recycle, Repeat, a national recycling program for beauty and personal care products. It motivates the next generation to go green by recycling their empty beauty products. This is the world’s first beauty recycling program that facilitates collection and recycling of beauty empties that otherwise cannot be recycled for free. Garnier Indonesia also incorporates 40% recycled glass into skincare jars.
Takeaways for brands

3. Connect with potential customers in the nearby community.

Ensure you have a prominent online presence so that your customers can easily find you. Google My Business is an easy-to-use tool that helps businesses connect and interact with the customers who are looking for their products and services.

In APAC, 53% of online shoppers say they’ll buy online even more frequently post-pandemic. With millions conducting shopping-related searches on Google every day, brands have the opportunity to list their products (for free) on Listings.

Searches for “shopping near me” have grown 3x in the past two years, clearly indicating that shoppers are turning to digital to find what they need, nearby. Brands can tap into the opportunity by using local inventory ads to show nearby shoppers what’s available, in stock, and how to get to the physical shop.
Trend 3

Whole Selves

Due to the pandemic, new circumstances such as work from home and disrupted routines have emerged. Suddenly, the lines that used to distinguish the manager in the office from the parent at home have blurred. They now have to juggle their home and work needs, and find ways to keep children, who are at home, occupied. This has led to an increase in search for gadgets and tools that boost efficiency and productivity.
Work From Home (WFH) can be challenging. Across Indonesia, many are searching for ways to adjust to their new work environment.

Takeaways for brands

Lines are blurring in the roles people play. Consumers are no longer a singular individual (i.e. parent, employee, teacher), but someone who plays many roles every day. They’re looking for brands to meet specific needs at any one time, and search for brands that fit into their lives, and not the other way around.

1. Challenge your business to think beyond traditional industry considerations. A wider understanding of human needs means a wider business opportunity.

Another consideration is that by 2030, Asia is expected to be home to 59% of the world’s Muslim population, representing a huge opportunity for local brands. Alongside a growing population is a growing demand for a wider range of halal products. The 2020 Global Islamic Economy report noted a 12% increase in halal-certified products and over 200% growth in the halal chocolates, desserts and ice cream categories. The halal food industry alone is one of the world’s fastest-growing economic sectors, valued at over $2.2 trillion.
2. Speak to your customers like a local.

Offering voice-based solutions is a helpful way to engage with existing customers, as well as attract new ones.

Within Google marketing, even when users are on English language browsers, click through rates are consistently higher when local language ad copy is used.

"CTR was 17% higher in Hong Kong and Taiwan and as much as 34% in Indonesia, highlighting how important it is for businesses to challenge digital norms - Sebastiaan Burgmans, Director, SMB Ads Marketing, Google APAC"

Telkomsel, a wireless network provider with >160 million users, decided to change the name of their service network to display 'TSEL-DiRumahAja' on screens instead of the usual 'TSEL' to remind 70 million users across Indonesia to stay home, after search interest for “DiRumahAja” (stay at home) grew across Indonesia on Google Trends.
3. Rethink your business boundaries. Challenging traditional industry models will help you uncover new business opportunities.

To reduce the spread of the coronavirus, Indonesian cosmetics brand Mustika Ratu, quickly changed its business model to launch an Olive Hand Gel that kills viruses and bacteria, but maintains the skin’s moisture and softness.

The beauty brand also recently launched its #ImunKuatIndonesiaSehat campaign, with new herbal and immunity-boosting products and drinks to keep Indonesians healthy amid the pandemic.
4. Fit into their world.
Adjust your business and marketing solutions to fit into your consumers’ lives and needs either through your communication strategy or actual product solutions.

With social distancing top of mind among consumers, the Bluebird Group launched a “Chat-Order-Delivery” service for groceries via chat so Indonesians could skip a visit to the supermarket for essential items.

Halodoc released daily educational content to create awareness about COVID-19 and reduce the spread of the virus. It also partnered with Gojek to launch a consultation chat service for people to check their risks and monitor symptoms for COVID-19.

5. Make it easy.
More time online means less patience for digital mistakes.

With various levels of lockdowns still on-going, a brand’s online presence is especially critical. Dive into these tips for a high-level view of how to ensure your online presence becomes an effective storefront for your business.
Trend 4

Sweet Relief

The pandemic has canceled festivals, concerts and other events. Many vacations and large celebrations have been limited or put on hold. But happiness and joy are always welcome. Seeking out fun, recreational activities may be even more important now. Doing something you enjoy can distract you from problems and help you cope with life’s challenges. Amidst a year of historic challenges, consumers are embracing products and activities that spark joy and create a safe space for them to take a break.
Given the limited entertainment and recreation options and the challenges many face in their everyday lives, Indonesians have been seeking alternative forms of downtime.

Indonesia, Pakistan, Malaysia, the Philippines, and India all saw YoY growth in searches for “memes”.

Indonesia also had the highest concentration of searches for humour-related content than any country in the world.

Brands that surprise and delight can reap the rewards of consumer love – especially when they do it for people’s unique experiences and challenges.

1. Make things fun in a personal way.

Google delights Avengers fans with surprise results when they search for one of the movie’s villains.

Google introduced a new, fun way of searching, including “hum to search”, a service that helps people figure out the name of a song by simply humming, whistling, or singing the melody.
2. Make your videos fun for your audience to watch.
A recent global survey* asked consumers how they want brands to show up at this time and the resounding answer across APAC was “Be light-hearted and funny, but do it cautiously and meaningfully”.

Traveloka’s #ExperienceMore campaign uses humor and a lighthearted spirit to highlight Traveloka’s 50,000+ choices of experiences for Indonesians to choose from.

3. Make it easier to share the joy.
Nestlé created a campaign for Bear Brand milk that encouraged consumers to share photos of the various ways they use Bear Brand milk with the message “Bear Brand, bisa banget!” (Whatever the situation, Bear Brand can help!) Through customer insights they realized that Indonesians of all walks of life use the product in a variety of ways, which includes easing nausea, improving skincare, and as a fitness drink. Bear Brand realized that sharing the joy was one way to speak to all users.

Future Proofing

In a year that nobody could have planned for, people are looking to find a greater sense of control. Indonesians are searching for ways to boost their skills and business, and are growing curious about financial products. The pandemic has also been a wake-up call to adopt a healthy lifestyle. To ensure peace of mind, many have started looking for ways to future-proof and de-risk their lives, while seeking reassurance from brands along the way.

Consider your consumers’ desire for peace of mind, lower appetite for risk, and forward-planning mindset when crafting your business strategy and communications.

1. Empower your customers, and reduce risk.

When makeup trials were no longer encouraged, Wardah created a digital platform on their website for users to try on different lipstick shades before purchasing through their virtual makeup and skin analyzer feature.

2. Enable them to act on information easily.

Aid consumer decision making by including crucial information with Search Ad Extensions. By including things like callouts, price extensions and affiliate locations, you not only make things easier for your customers, but you become easier to find with greater visibility on the Search results page.
3. Recognize the role brands can play in empowering people to grow their skill sets.

Gapura Digital collaborated with the Ministry of Tourism and Creative Economy through their program Gapura Digital Wonderful Indonesia. It supports Indonesia’s economic recovery by providing free digital training access for SMB players in the tourism industry.
Daily routines have drastically changed in the “new normal”. It’s no surprise our skin is feeling it too. Indonesians have quickly learned that skin concerns aren’t the same for everyone.

How Pepsodent used Search to highlight the solution people want

Unilever's Pepsodent wanted to assist consumers who were searching for ways to improve oral care and prevent tooth-related problems. With Search, they were able to learn that its audience was searching for queries such as “obat sakit gigi” (medicine for toothache) and “cara menghilangkan bau mulut” (ways to remove bad breath), and leveraged these insights to provide solutions to consumers on its website. Pepsodent also used Dynamic Search ads to personalize ad copy according to what consumers searched for, automatically generating a headline based on their search query and linking to matching content on the site.

Overall, Pepsodent saw a significant increase in click-through rate (CTR) and website visits (compared with previous campaigns).
Having a lip product smear all over the fabric of a protective face mask isn't a good look. So, Indonesians are searching for lipsticks that will stay put.

1. Emphasize your hero ingredients to capture consumers’ attention.

Beauty buyers know what they are looking for in a product. Their needs have shifted from finding basic solutions to routine skincare problems to purchasing products with specific ingredients (e.g. retinol) and benefits. Leverage these aspirations by highlighting your brand’s hero ingredients and educating consumers about them.

Olay launched their Regenerist Retinol24 products, highlighting retinol as their hero ingredient on minimalistic packaging. Retinol is known to help reduce signs of aging.

2. Become a market leader by not only championing products, but also providing solutions too.

Indonesians now turn online first in order to address their at-home personal care concerns. Go a step further by providing online solutions to their unique queries and guide them on ways to adopt and incorporate your products and services into their personal care routines.

Pepsodent provides free online dentist consultations to support families with dental problems while staying at home during the pandemic. As a brand, they have transformed from being a dental solution provider to a thought leader in oral care.
3. Focus on the things that are top on mind.

The pandemic has changed consumers’ priorities. Find innovative ways to address their beauty needs with focused solutions such as transfer-proof lipstick while wearing a face mask or an emphasis on the eyes.

Collaborate with YouTube content creators and prominent beauty vloggers to enable consumers to come up with their own beauty solutions using your brand’s products. Highlight fuss-free makeup for time optimization while working from home.

Tip

Use ad copies that highlight creative beauty ideas as they seek inspiration from brands.
Finance

Across Indonesia, consumers are being more proactive when it comes to managing finances. They are turning to the internet to actively educate themselves on financial services and secure investment options.
There is growing interest in learning and adopting online banking solutions.

140% jump in search queries related to “buka rekening online” (open online banking)

70% increase in searches for “tabungan online” (online savings)

20% rise in searches related to “cara daftar mobile banking” (how to register for mobile banking)

How Jenius uses Search to engage people from the beginning of their purchasing journeys

“With COVID-19 further accelerating digital adoption, more people seek information on the internet and are expanding into the digital space, particularly in the financial services industry.

With Search, we utilized precision targeting to communicate to potential users looking for information regarding Jenius and other banking services. As a result, we achieved a higher quarter-by-quarter brand position and higher share of voice (SOV) in the banking category. Google Search has become a solution that we, as marketers, cannot leave out of our marketing strategy mix.

Takeaways for brands

1. Capture the first-time adopters.
More people are adopting online financial services as they minimize face-to-face interactions. Tailor your marketing communication to highlight the simplicity and ease of adopting your online solutions as well as the benefits they bring to consumers.

The #GakPakeDonlot campaign by Mandiri encourages people to open a bank account online by just scanning a QR code or opening a web link, without the need to download anything.

Tip
Bid on popular keywords such as “open new bank account” or “apply credit card”.
Add app extension to invite audience to download your mobile app.

2. Help Indonesians manage their money.
Be the brand that provides the tools to make personal financial management easy.

Moneytory, a feature in Jenius, enables consumers to track cash flow by giving a summary of their financial status.

Tip
Bid on keywords such as “savings tips” and “personal finance” to reach consumers looking to manage their finances.
Add call extensions so users can reach out to your sales agent or customer service to learn more.
3. Be the trusted financial advisor.

Indonesians are researching about financial products online. Be the resource customers want (and need) by providing information and online solutions.

BCA’s Investment Calculator and Cermati’s investment advice articles are examples of online resources that help customers learn about investing.

Tip

Bid on keywords such as “investasi reksadana” or “beli reksadana” to reach interested audiences.

Add sitelink ad extension to direct customers to your information page or the web tools you offer.

1. Provide the inspiration your audience needs.

Indonesians are spending more time cooking while staying indoors. Provide inspiration on how they can use your products with easy recipes.

Bango showcased the various recipes people could create using their ingredients on their website.

2. Change how you reach your customers.

More Indonesians are eating in or ordering in. Find creative ways to entice customers to try your products. Add variety to your menu, such as frozen foods, to make cooking at home easier or offer incentives to those who buy in bulk.
3. Leverage new trends to become a culinary trendsetter.

The pandemic has unlocked new food trends. Show consumers how your products can be integrated into them.

With trends surrounding Korean food taking off, Mie Sedaap collaborated with Korean icon Siwon to promote their new Korean noodle product line.

4. Focus on the health benefits.

With Indonesians becoming more proactive about their lifestyle choices, devise effective strategies to build brand loyalty early in consumers’ search for health. Create awareness about your products and educate consumers about their health benefits.

Takeaways for brands

1. Ride the content wave to stay relevant.

The boom for the Media and Entertainment industry has created growth in gaming and movie content in the country. Ensure that you are tapping into this opportunity, even if you are not a Media & Entertainment brand.

Gaming: Reach out to diverse users by partnering with labels to provide co-funded, in-game perks or participate in gaming subcultures.

Gojek tapped into this opportunity by creating a viral campaign with Pevita Pearce and Joe Taslim, incorporating their GoPay x Google Play partnership into a game-like ad.

Movies: More important than showing up in consumers’ searches is delivering meaningful content when they’re searching for you.

OTT players could consider activations such as Search Partnerships or leverage Search’s “What to watch” feature, where users come for movie recommendations.

Telco players could highlight packages that help users watch their movies with buffer-free data packages, invest in Search Ads, and bid on arts and entertainment keywords related to movies.
Takeaways for brands

2. Continue to personalize your product offerings.

As consumption of content grows, consumers in metros and non-metros are relying on fast and reliable internet access more than ever. Yet, what Indonesians are consuming in these areas vary. Reach out to these consumer segments by creating hyper-local and separate internet quota packages that cater to the different consumption patterns.

3. Push for more entertainment through different hardwares.

With home entertainment being the main source of entertainment for Indonesians at the moment, consumers do not mind paying more for a better viewing experience. Capture this demand by marketing hardware products such as smart TVs, bigger screens, speakers, gaming mouse and headphones.
Shopping

Shopping has evolved significantly across Indonesia since the start of COVID-19. Consumers are growing smarter in how they interact with and expect from brands. They also do not hesitate to log on to sell products or promote their side businesses.
There is growing interest in online businesses in the country. Indonesians are discovering that starting a side business or a homegrown business can be beneficial, especially in uncertain times.

Takeaways for brands

1. Be there for your consumers.
Consumers going online are not just as buyers, but sellers too. Brands should embrace Indonesia’s entrepreneurial spirit and reach out to SMBs. Show up for your consumers by highlighting that we are all in this together to build brand presence.

Tokopedia supported Indonesia’s local economy through its #JagaEkonomiIndonesia campaign by encouraging people to start their businesses on their platform.
2. Know your customers and match their demands.

Today’s shoppers are smart and have high expectations. They want sophisticated shopping features and seek brands that highlight their value propositions or take it to the next level. Reach out to them by making online shopping convenient, offering multiple payment options, and free and contactless delivery.

Grab and Gojek adapted during the pandemic. Grab introduced contactless delivery for its GrabFood and GrabExpress services to minimize physical contact, while GoFood added quick reply options in the app for users to indicate where to leave their items as well as temperature checks of their drivers to assure safety to their customers.
Takeaways for brands

3. Invest in content creation.

As consumers shop online for new product types, they are valuing informative content now more than ever. Create content to help them choose between products and services they’re considering, and provide tips on using your product or service after purchase. Being proactive is key, so ensure that you are taking matters into your own hands by measuring the ROI of your ads investment by creating your own landing pages/website.

Tip

Set up Google Shopping campaigns with useful product description and information about your products so consumers can easily be guided when they are making a purchase.
Technology has played a crucial role in keeping our society functional in a time of lockdowns and quarantines. With few places to go to or reasons to spend, Indonesians staying indoors are upgrading their home-Offices.

Tip

Use rising Search terms on Google Trends related to the pandemic and WFH, such as “hp untuk sekolah online”, to reach people who have intent to purchase.
Takeaways for brands

2. Highlight the most sought-after features of your technology product as more consumers are proactively searching for the best.

Consumers have always been searching for the best products. But now, more than ever, they are going online to proactively search for products that they trust would be the best, of the latest model and value for money. Emphasize these features when you advertise your products to capitalize on this demand.

Tip

Use product listing ads and ensure you are set up on Google Shopping to boost discoverability for when your consumers are looking for your tech products.
3. Ensure that your brand is omnipresent in offline and online retail.

As consumers navigate numerous touchpoints, meet customers where they are: both when they are looking for your technology product online or when they are looking for the nearest electronic store. Brands that successfully connect the O2O experience will thrive in this new normal.

Tip

Get listed online. Register your business with a physical storefront on Google My Business so consumers find you on Google Maps and Search.

Adopt location extension to help people find your locations by showing your ads with your address.
Transport and travel

The pandemic has had a major impact on Indonesia’s automotive and travel sectors. Both industries, however, have shown tremendous resilience in these challenging times and continue to innovate to cater to pent-up demand and new travel behavior.

Takeaways for brands

For Auto brands:

1. Help customers take care of their vehicles.
Private cars have emerged as Indonesians’ preferred means of transport since the pandemic, making their maintenance top priority. Capitalize on the demand by focusing your product offerings and marketing messages towards after-sales services and spare parts.

Tip
Travel keywords are relevant to automotive players. For example, reach customers researching about road trips with ads about a family-friendly vehicle.

Add lead form extension to your Search Ads so people can let you know where to contact them and what they are looking for (eg. type of repair work they need, car types, quotation, etc.)

2. Shift your offline events and activities online.
People are continuing to avoid face-to-face interactions. Encourage them to participate or engage in online activities. Pivot strategy to shift your efforts online and rethink brand engagement to connect with digital audiences.

Examples: Online IOOF, Online dealership/Auto 2000 digiroom
For Travel brands:

1. Highlight products that suit new recreation trends.
   Travelers’ are opting for recreational activities that are nearby, family-focused, or even virtual. Help them discover local activities and destinations. You could also innovate and offer virtual experiences that customers can enjoy at home.

   Drive-in Senja Cinema gained popularity among film fans wary of the coronavirus.

   Tip
   Adjust your ad text and use extensions to highlight offerings relevant to current trends. Register on Google My Business and leverage location extensions on Search Ads.

2. Help your customers by appeasing their concerns about health and hygiene.
   Health and hygiene are top of mind among travellers. Offer solutions to give them peace of mind in their travels. Become a relevant resource at a time when rules and regulations around travelling are changing continuously.

   Tiket.com’s CLEAN and Traveloka’s Clean Accommodation indicate accommodations that are compliant to the hygiene standards set by WHO, the government and hotel associations of the country.

   Garuda Indonesia provides an updated and definitive information page on changing rules of travelling during Covid-19.

   Tip
   Boost confidence by including words such as “clean” (“bersih”), “comfortable” (“nyaman”) and “safe” (“aman”) in your ad text.
   Add sitelink extensions to explain your health and hygiene solutions.
